

Coloured Billiard Caricature, A New Way Of Paying Debts Of Honour!!
Samuel William Fores

Sold

REF: 29024

Height: 23.5 cm (9.3")

Width: 34.5 cm (13.6")

Framed Height: 44.5 cm (17.5")

Framed Width: 53.5 cm (21.1")

Framed Depth: 53.5 cm (21.1")

Description

Samuel William Fores Humorous Billiard Print 'A new way of paying debts of honour!!'.

An early 19th humorous billiard coloured chromolithographic caricature print after S. W. Fores entitled 'A new way of paying debts of honour!!'. In the top left hand corner 'I acknowledge I am indebted to you all, but as I have not a farthing of money to pay you - I also know the consequence therefore KICK away Gentlemen if you please, the sooner the debt's discharged the better'. Pub. June 23 1800 by SW Fores, 50 Piccadilly, Folios of caricatures lent out for an evening.

From Wikipedia

Samuel William Fores, often credited as S. W. Fores (1761 - 3 February 1838) was an English illustrator and publisher/printer based in Piccadilly, London. Fores, the son of a cloth merchant, began his career publishing his illustrations in 1783. He operated from premises at No 3 Piccadilly from 1785 and moved to 50 Piccadilly from 1795. He specialised in caricature, typically hand-coloured, singly issued prints. He became successful at marketing his works, which he often sold wholesale. Fores acquired a particularly large collection of caricatures, and at one time was said to have "the completest collection in the kingdom" in his Caricature Museum. He died in February 1838 at the age of 77 and was buried in his family vault at St. James Church in Jermyn Street.