Description

Antique Brassie Golf Club, John Wisden & Co. Ltd.

A classic period socket-head persimmon wood brassie by John Wisden & Co. Ltd., London. This attractive club features a subtle pale alignment line across the crown to aid aiming, while the head is fitted with a rear lead weight for balance and the traditional horn slip along the leading edge of the sole, complemented by a full brass sole plate. Presented in excellent overall condition, the crown is stamped 'John Wisden & Co. Ltd., London, Special', and the club retains its original hickory shaft fitted with a suede leather grip.

A high-quality, fully usable club in excellent condition, making it an ideal choice for hickory golf.

For players of hickory golf, low- to mid-compression modern golf balls are the best option. They compress more efficiently at impact with the slower swing speeds typically associated with hickory clubs, providing improved distance, feel, and control. They also place less stress on vintage wooden heads and hickory shafts, helping to protect these classic clubs from unnecessary wear or damage. Soft-feel and ladies' golf balls are particularly well suited to modern hickory play, offering an excellent balance of performance and club preservation.

Approximate loft: 16°, Swing weight: B-8
