This elegant silver rocker blotter is a charming and practical addition to any writing desk or bureau. Crafted with a plain silver wraparound cover over a wooden core, it features a beautifully detailed, detachable lady golfer figure forming the handle-adding a distinctive sporting character to this refined desk accessory. Both the blotter and the figural handle are fully hallmarked for sterling silver, displaying the lion passant, the Birmingham anchor assay mark, and the date letter "B" for 1926. The maker's mark "S&M" identifies the respected silversmiths Sanders & Mackenzie, further enhancing its collectible appeal. The gently curved wooden rocker base allows for smooth, effective blotting, while the silver-plated and sterling elements combine durability with timeless style. Presented in beautiful condition with no damage, this stylish piece is not only a decorative antique but also a highly functional tool-perfect for keeping your writing neat while elevating the look of your workspace.
