Description

Vintage Binocular Periscope 10x45.

This impressive piece of optical equipment, often referred to as a Binocular Periscope, Trench Binoculars, Battery Commander's Telescope, or Donkey Ear Binoculars, is a striking example of mid-20th century military engineering. Mounted on a classic wooden tripod, the entire unit has been carefully stripped of its original paint and polished to reveal a sleek metal finish accented with brass fittings. The optics are exceptionally clear and fully adjustable, offering precise viewing. Built-in miniature spirit levels assist in accurate setup and alignment.

Marked with "SzT 10 x 45 523030, 41, 1956", this periscope dates back to 1956 and remains a functional and collectible artifact of military history.
