Description

Campaign Picnic Set, Tea Maker.

A late Victorian chrome plated metal traveller's tea set in original leather case. The set comprising of a kettle that doubles as a tea pot, a spirit burner, jug, an oval bowl and two containers with screw lids. When travelling the tea pot is used as a container to house the jug, bowl and canisters. The ring that supports the kettle will lift off the burner so that the kettle sits lower allowing everything to fit neatly into the leather case. The tea set is unnamed but in good condition. The tea maker was an ideal piece of equipment for the motorist, cyclist as well as the tourist.
