

Brassie Golf Club by Alex Patrick of Leven

Alex Patrick

Sold

REF: 25299

Height: 108 cm (42.5")

Description

Antique Hickory Golf Club, Brassie, Alex Patrick, Leven.

A good original 1920's persimmon wood socket head driver with hickory shaft and suede leather grip. The head marked 'Alex Patrick, Leven. Fife, ACME '. The club head has lead weight to the rear, a full brass sole plate and a face insert with three securing pegs. This is a good high quality usable golf club. The face is faintly stamped 'Lady's'.

Alex Patrick (1845 – 1930) served his club making apprenticeship under his father at Leven from 1857, which his father, John a cabinet maker, started in 1847. Upon his fathers death (1886) Alex inherited the family business. In the same year he left Scotland for the Royal Wimbledon Golf Club to become the professional and green keeper there. The Leven business continued while he was away, run by an employee, and he returned in 1891. The Patrick's were renowned clubmakers, they also eventually began to sell balls, making hand-hammered gutta percha balls in the 1890's.

Approximate measurements:-

12 ° Loft, 58½ ° lie, A9 swing weight.

If you are wishing to play some hickory golf the best balls to play with are low compression balls that will give at impact, such as ladies balls or soft feel balls.