

Vintage Hickory Shafted Putter, Pixie

Sold

REF: 29598

Height: 86 cm (33.9")

Width: 10.5 cm (4.1")

Depth: 3.1 cm (1.2")

Description

Vintage Bent Neck Putter, Pixie By Haskins Of Hoylake.

A fine and nicely weighted dot punched faced offset putter, wryneck putter by Haskins of Hoylake. The hickory shaft with polished leather grip, the rear of the club head marked 'PIXIE, rustless, warranted hand forged, Bent Neck Putter, Haskins Hoylake'. A great usable bent neck putter.

The measurements shown are the length of the shaft with hosel and the width and depth of the face.

The Royal Liverpool Golf Club is a Links course in Merseyside, in the North West of England. Their Clubhouse is located in the small town of Hoylake, consequently the course is often referred to as Hoylake. It was founded in 1869 on what was then the racecourse of the Liverpool Hunt Club and Robert Chambers and George Morris (younger brother of Old Tom Morris) were commissioned to lay out the original course. The course was extended to 18 holes in 1871 when it also received the 'Royal' designation due to the patronage of the Duke of Connaught of the day, who was one of Queen Victoria's younger sons. Hoylake has a long and distinguished history of golfing firsts. It was originator and host to the inaugural men's amateur championship in 1885, which became The Amateur Championship. It was host to the first ever international match between Scotland and England in 1902. It hosted the first Home International matches, and the first transatlantic contest between Great Britain & Ireland and the USA in 1921, an event which became the Walker Cup the following year. In fact, it is Royal Liverpool Golf Club's contribution to the amateur game that has set it apart from all other clubs in England.